

Is there a link between health system research and conflict resolution...the ReBUILD experience

Suzanne Fustukian

Queen Margaret University

What is ReBUILD?

Aim

Who we are

Cambodia (CDRI), Sierra Leone (COMAHS), Uganda (MUSPH), Zimbabwe (BRTI), UK (LSTM) and (QMU).

Why ReBUILD?

Disruption of disease control programmes

Destruction of infrastructure

Flight of health professionals

Interruption of drug supply

Displacement of communities

Capacity for coordination, regulation and trust

DFID definition of a fragile state

Willingness

Weak

Strong

Weak

At risk or failed

Weak but willing

Capacity

Strong

Strong but unresponsive

Good performer

Authority failures

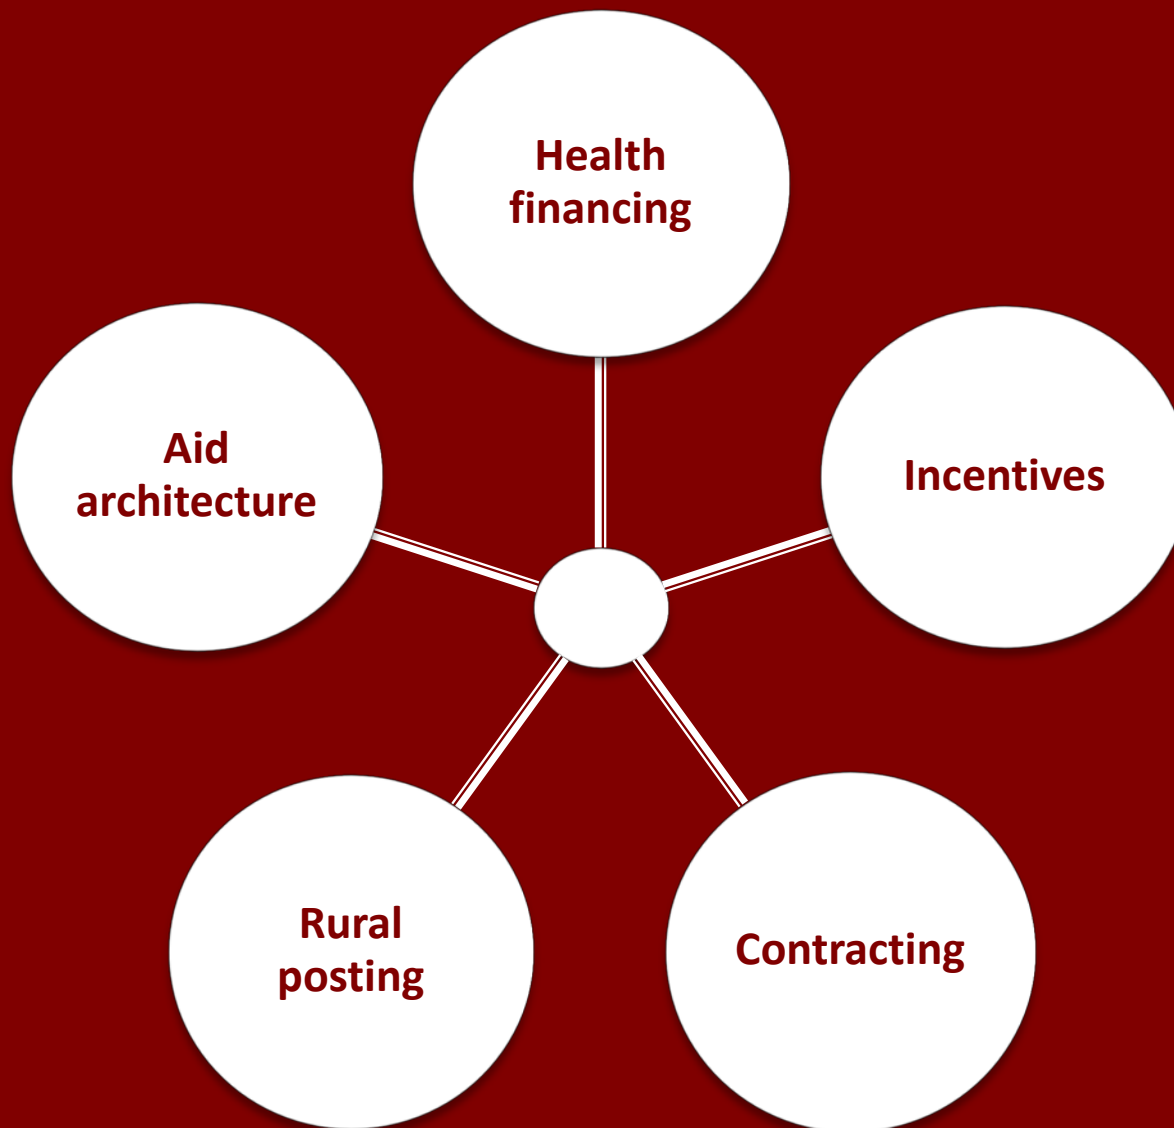

Service failures

Legitimacy failure

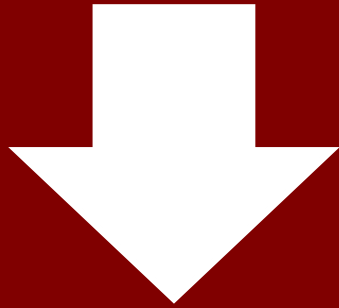

Stewart and Brown

Brinkerhoff 2007

Research themes

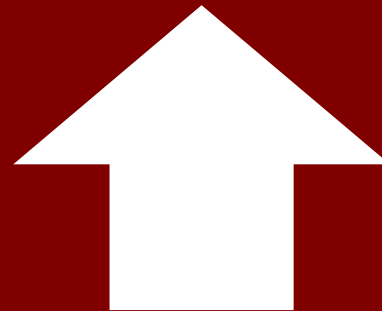

Methodology

Quantitative

Qualitative

Gender

Cross-cutting theme

Understanding conflict. Building peace.

Health financing

Incentives

Contracting

Rural posting

Aid architecture

Livelihoods and determinants of health

What is our contribution?

To deliver new knowledge to inform the development and implementation of pro-poor health systems in countries recovering from political and social conflict

Is there a link between health system research and conflict resolution?