

Six good reasons for joining our Network

Medicus Mundi International – Network Health for All (MMI) is a network of organizations working in the field of international health cooperation and global health. The Network promotes access to health and health care as a fundamental human right and supports the efforts undertaken in this respect by its members. There are some good reasons to join in:

1 MMI promotes health for all and the right to health. Equitable access to health is a human right, and strong health systems are essential for sustainable and equitable development.

2 For over 50 years MMI has been successfully linking organizations working in the fields of health cooperation, international health research and global health policies, governance and advocacy. In its 2016-20 strategy the Network is building on this track record by providing new activities and services in these fields.

3 The Network is a living community. Through its working groups and meetings, it offers great opportunities for learning, sharing and collaborating.

4 The Network promotes the work of its members and amplifies their voices. MMI provides opportunities to find partners in order to present projects to international institutions and potential funders.

5 MMI is a horizontal network respecting the values and autonomy of its members. The network itself is owned and financed by its members and remains autonomous from any other actor, public or private.

6 MMI is an NGO in official relations with the World Health Organization. MMI provides its members with access to WHO meetings and consultations, allowing them to engage in a range of issues including health systems strengthening, health workforce development, universal health coverage, social determinants of health and global health governance.

Interested? Learn more about MMI and how to join the Network by visiting our electronic platform. And get in touch with our secretariat!